Foreword

Look to this day,

For it is the very life of life.

In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of your existence:

The glory of action,

The bliss of growth,

The splendor of beauty,

For yesterday is but a dream and

Tomorrow is only a vision;

But today well lived makes every

Yesterday a dream of happiness,

And every tomorrow a vision of hope.

Look well, therefore, to this day.

Dedication

We, the class of nineteen hundred and sixty, do dedicate this annual to the people of the town of Monson on the town's bicentennial anniversary. Without the energetic support of you, the townspeople, our various and numerous activities and functions would not have been possible. We say simply, but sincerely, "Thank you."

Class History

One bright September morning we, a group of eager children, set out toward an important looking building where we knew a whole new world would open to us - the wonderful world of school with its apples, chalk dust, paper planes, and pencils. Here we would meet some of our best friends and have the best times of our lives. Some of us were frightened as we entered the strange and crowded room for each child stared, equally curious about the others. Finally the teacher came into the room and we became introduced to each other and, by small degrees, to school routine. As time passed each student progressed and left his own mark behind him. Carlos Casey left his on Mrs. Sherman's head but learned not to throw bats while playing baseball.

Second grade came and went with no drastic incidents except for the usual gentle play and good clean fun that is practiced by all second grade students.

In our third year, however, we made up for lost time. A fire at Mechanic Street School, with our junior fireman Steve Mushenko on hand, provided us an unexpected two-weeks' vacation. Also a Junior P.T.A. was formed at Mechanic Street. Dave Sanborn developed several new habits here. One is well remembered by the many students who fell victims to Dave's skillfully placed foot.

Fourth and fifth grades were relatively calm, but rest assured that we will not be forgotten by our lucky teachers. Thank heaven. Mache maps, and dancing in a May Day dance Janet will remember best.

In seventh grade we had fun square dancing at South Main Street School. We had various clubs formed such as the Arts and Crafts Club, the Reading Club with Miss Jones, the Model Club, the Dramatic Club, and the "Colonial" newspaper.

Breaking cat-o'-nine-tails amused us in eighth grade but Miss Jones wasn't so amused. Sally remembers the pencil and the freshly waxed floor in math class. Carol Storm joined us this year.

At last we found ourselves in high school, caught in the whirl of initiation, homework, and dances. We became familiar with all the new faces and the school, and became aware of our goal, the Washington Trip, toward which we must all work hard. Our Sophomore Hop, "Devil's Paradise," and Junior Prom, "Mardi Gras," were very successful. The queen of the Prom, Joan Moore, was as pretty as she is nice and we were all happy for her.

Those of us who remember the Canada trip remember also the pajama parties, eating in restaurants, the party on the train, the bus trips, and the night Carolyn woke Roger White and Mike at 3 A.M. to come and see the "girls" from New Hampshire. Those who were with Dave Sanborn recall how perfectly the driver understood his French.

We finished our junior year with a party at Lorraine's where many of us learned how cold water can be despite our objections. We didn't envy the kids at school at all though. We remember, too, all the trips to Ocean Beach, the one-act plays, and all the fun of being seniors. In this, our senior year, although we are anxious to graduate, we regret having to leave all this behind.

Where's the basketball?

The five musketeers?

Passing to the other team.

Stop whistling!

Which is bigger?

The iron curtain.

Is this basketball?

The team was in a huddle.

We fired the first rocket!
